

WORKSHOP FOR INTERPRETER & BILINGUAL PROVIDER TRAINING SERIES

Trauma Informed Interpretation for Survivors of Crime: A Skill enhancement workshop

This workshop is designed to equip interpreters with the knowledge and skills necessary to provide trauma-informed support to survivors of crime.

Participants will learn about the impact of trauma on survivors, develop strategies for creating a safe and supportive interpreting environment, and enhance their ability to communicate effectively and compassionately. Through interactive exercises, discussions, and role-plays, participants will gain practical tools to apply in their interpreting work.

KEY OBJECTIVES

- Understand the complexities of trauma and its impact on communication
- Understand the complexities of disclosure for survivors of crime, especially for immigrant communities
- Create a safe and supportive interpreting environment
- Use trauma-informed language and communication techniques
- Build trust and rapport with survivors
- Collaborate effectively with victim service providers

TARGET AUDIENCE

This workshop is essential for interpreters who work with diverse populations, including those from marginalized communities, and who are committed to providing culturally competent and trauma-responsive services.

ABOUT THE INSTRUCTOR

*Born in Mexico and immigrating to the U.S. at age two, Viridiana Flores Delgado is fluent in both English and Spanish. She earned a Criminal Justice degree with a Psychology minor from Metropolitan State University of Denver.
